Q: How can I get rid of my cowlick?

A:

Unfortunately there is no permanent way to remove a cowlick as they are a growth pattern (just like the swirl of the crown) however there are ways to cut hair with cow licks to manage them a little better.

Cow licks in the front of the hair (particularly in side fringes) can be tamed by a little reverse physiology trick, simply blow-dry your hair in the opposite direction to which you would like it to sit and then bring it back over.

9 times out of 10 this will work wonders, but there are days when cow licks like to be stubborn so a hairpin can be your best friend if all else fails.

It is best to dry the area of your hair with the cowlick first when blow drying as the more they are able to dry in their natural kick the harder they are to work out!
